

hello energy... ..

Sustainability meets engagement

Want to get your buildings to net-zero, but don't know how to get there?

Stakeholders play a crucial role in getting your real estate to net-zero carbon. hello energy helps you engage them on this pathway. With our software, everyone will truly want to become part of your sustainability journey; whether it's tenants, asset managers, property managers or visitors.

hello energy gives you impactful ways to change the way your building and the people in it perform – such as actionable insights, benchmarks, surveys, content creation, and inspiring and fun challenges that will spark behavioral change.:

We also empower you to take your ESG strategy and green certification goals to the next level and become a real estate leader in sustainability. With hello energy, you can drive change in any building, anywhere.

A woman with long brown hair, wearing a blue top and green pants, is sitting in a light-colored, ribbed armchair in a modern office lounge. She is looking towards a large, vibrant living wall covered in various green plants. The room has a high ceiling with a grid of wooden slats and recessed lighting. A small table with a vase of flowers and another armchair are visible in the foreground. The overall atmosphere is bright and contemporary.

hello energy:
the leading software
solution for real estate owners to create energy-positive buildings.

Discover hello energy

hello energy is powerful integrated software solution to help real estate companies tell the story of their buildings while lowering operating costs and carbon emissions. hello energy's mission is to make it easy for you, your tenants, and your third-party partners to take action on climate change by giving you access to all the information you need.

Our features

Connect to your stakeholders

Align with tenants and internal stakeholders on your sustainability ambitions to find out where you can improve your sustainability score together.

Export performance data for reporting

Create and share sustainability performance reports of all your data based on filters such as a specific time, data stream or data from a specific utility.

Benchmark your building performance

Benchmark your building and portfolio performance to the industry standards.

Get data-driven insights

Get actionable data-driven insights based on the performance and specifics of your building.

Save energy with tips & tricks

Get tips & tricks about sustainability and spur people into action to improve sustainability.

Create and share sustainability content

Spread sustainability content to all your tenants and visitors of the building with the help of our playlist functionality and portal.

5 main benefits of hello energy

hello energy is currently available in more than 13 countries and 600 buildings. This is how we create value:

Engage your audience with actionable insights

It's what is needed to get everyone on board.

Improve your investor value & tenant experience

Green investments just make sense. Don't be late to the party.

Earn credits for multiple green building certifications

Get ahead and stay ahead of the game with assessments for BREEAM, GRESB and WELL.

Boost your building's performance

Run your real estate smoothly and align people with your processes.

Unlock the power of data

Better ESG reporting and 100% data coverage worldwide, and smart data drives better

You're in great company here's what our customers say:

“

hello energy goes beyond the technical and theoretical. We now have a daily touchpoint in our building, showing the true impact of how much energy we're saving, in a way that's easy to understand for our clients and tenants!

- Nuno Fideles, Sustainability Consultant & Associate Architect

”

“

Our biggest challenge lies in making existing offices future-proof. hello energy helps us getting tenants and other stakeholders on board. Knowing the results of sustainable investments creates an enormous incentive to keep improving.

- Bas Jochims, Director Dutch Office & Hotel Investments

”

Want to learn more?
Contact us for a demo.

Contact us →